GIESEL TO PAY HEAVY PENALTY OR GO TO JAIL

Three Years Imprisonment Imposed In Spurious Liquor Case

DAMAGES GIVEN

By Paying Aggregate Of Tls. 22,000 Accused Can Escape Prison

Prison sentence of three years with the alternative of payment of fines, penalties and costs aggregating Tls. 22,000 was imposed yesterday upon Albert Giesel, head of the firm of Giesel and Company, and central figure in the criminal litigation that followed upon discovery that a vast quantity of spurious liquor masquerading under counterfeit labels and trade marks was being marketed in Shanghai.

The fines and various penalties that include damages in favor of firms whose trade marks were counterfeited were imposed by Assessor Crepin in the French Mixed Court who at the same time announced a decision that had been found against the defendant by the Chinese Court.

THE PENALTIES

The whole list of penalties imposed is as follows:

French Mixed Court fine, Tls. 2,000.

Damages awarded to the firm of Nolily-Prat and Company, manufacturers of vermouth, Tls. 10,000.

Award to Nolily Prat and Company to cover expenses of an investigation they instituted, $1,000.

Damages to James Hennessy and Company, manufacturers of Cognac, Tls. 6,000.

Court costs, Tls. 500.

Fine imposed under decision of the Chinese Court, Tls. 600.

The decree handed down also directs that all machinery owned by the Giesel firm which was used in the manufacture of spurious liquors and all spurious liquors seized should be destroyed. The Court ordered also that the decision in the case shall be published in foreign and Chinese newspapers in Shanghai, Hongkong, Tientsin, Peking and Canton and the costs of the publication must be borne by the accused.

TIME LIMIT TO PAY

Under the decree of the Court the whole list of fines and penalties must be paid in full before 10:30 o'clock on the morning of October 27 and if full payment has not been made within the time fixed the penalty of imprisonment becomes effective.

In giving the decision that was found against Giesel by the Chinese Court Assessor Crepin said the accused had been found guilty in the Chinese tribunal of infractions of Paragraphs 243, 246 and 250 of the Chinese criminal code which forbid possession of spurious wines and liquors.

The case against Mr. Giesel has aroused widespread interest not only in Shanghai but in many other cities of the Orient, inasmuch as Giesel and Company did a large business in the sale of wines and liquors imported from France. In his defence Dr. O. Fischer claimed that the liquor had been purchased indirectly from the firm of Reid's Ltd. when the latter went through the hands of a receiver and that Mr. Giesel had purchased it in good faith. He also stated that the defendant should not be held accountable for the actions of one of his employees, Mr. A. C. Mack, who at the present time was facing charges in the British court. Dr. Fischer said that if spurious liquor had been manufactured on the premises under the control of Giesel and Company it was without the knowledge or consent of the head of the firm.

In handing down his decision yesterday morning Judge Crepin severely criticised Mr. Giesel's actions, stating that he was guilty of gross neglect in not knowing what transpired in his own godown, particularly since the machinery had been purchased with his knowledge and consent. He ruled that the employer must be held at all times responsible for the actions of an employee and therefore judged him guilty of complicity in the manufacture of spurious liquors.

XI—"PRESTER JOHN"

By Larry Lehrlas

"Know and believe that I am the Priest John, the servant of God, and that I surpass in riches, in power and in virtue all the Kings of the Earth .... sixty-two Kings are tributary to me... We believe that we have no equal, either for the quantity of our riches or the number of our subjects....When we issue forth to make war on our enemies we have borne before us, upon thirteen carts, thirteen large and priceless crosses, ornamented with gold and jewels. Each cross is followed by ten thousand horsemen and 100,000 foot soldiers without counting the men of war charged to the conduct of baggage and the provisions of the army .... If you can count the sands of the sea, and the stars of the heaven, you may number my dominions, reckon my power."—Extracts from letter of Prester John written in Twelfth century.

Near Guencher the cavalcade came upon a different people living in clean yurts, having cleaner habits and stronger, more virile and more manly and civilised in every way. They were the Kirei, a Turkish tribe related to the Kirghis, now the uttermost outpost in Asia of Mohammedanism, but once the only Christian tribe in the heart of Asia ruled over by one of the most fantastic and mystic figures in history, Prester John.

Serge and his companions, after their nomad life among the Mongols, entered a Kirei encampment with mingled surprise and pleasure, but more pleasure than surprise. They saw that the Kirei lived in clean yurts, that the yurts were furnished with beds and cushions—for your Turk, be he ever so far removed from the ancient pure stock, is a glutton for comfort—that no dirty, odiferous lamas occupied the seats of honor, that the men and women looked cleaner, ate different foods, and dressed differently—all in strong contrast to the Mongols, and were therefore most agreeably pleased.

They were surprised because they then knew nothing of Prester John and his semi-mythical kingdom with its history wrapped in the shrouds of glorified antiquity and fairy stories.

MONARCH OR FOOL?

Prester John was either one of the world's greatest and most powerful and rich monarchs, or one of history's most glorious liars and fakers beside whom Marco Polo and his fabulous travels, Baron Munchausen, and Ananias, the nature faker, were mere pigmies in the gentle art of falsification and exaggeration. Prester John, to relax into slang, was the champion verbal toreador of all the continents and the seven seas, or a rival of Alexander the Great, Ghenghiz Khan and the Emperors of Rome, who dimmed their brilliancy into flashes of fireflies in comparison.

It was in the twelfth century, a time when Asia was still the great unexplored and mystical land of adventure to Europe that Prester John ruled the Christian Kirei tribe in the center of paganism among whose descendants Serge and his companions camped for two days last summer. Tales from out of Asia were magnified, exaggerated—but none could touch the tales the semi-mythical potentate of Asia's heart himself told in letters dispatched to the King of France, the Pope at Rome, and the Emperor at Constantinople. History has verified that such a king did live, very probably among the Kirei. Whether he was so powerful as he claimed the world will never know, for his own letters and the records of only two or three fabulous travelers are the only documents that tell the story.

HEAVEN AND HELL?

The Kingdom of Prester John was a Middle Age version of Heaven and Hell, with all the terrors and all the wonders the most fantastic writers have claimed for either. In addition to the wonders Prester John tells of in the letter above he claimed that his kingdom was the native home of the elephant, the camel, and the salamander—and that enormous herds of them roamed about; that it was the breeding grounds of the pigmies and giants, of cannibals and centaurs, and of one-eyed monsters; that serpents of every conceivable variety and kind, including some whose fantastic pictures are seen only in scientific treatises on stone-age reptiles and would make even Pussyfoot Johnson swear off good old aqua pura, wiggled and squirmed and slid between slimy trees whose tops pierced the very skies. Prester John, whether he was prohibitionist and a scientific investigator, or a lying addict of twelfth century opium, is one of the most passionate press-agents on record!

And this great monarch was finally conquered by Ghenghiz Khan and his barbaric warriors under yak-tail battle flags and

To Probe Chinese Banks In Shanghai

A motion to investigate the financial stability of the local Chinese banks which issue banknotes was introduced yesterday at the meeting of the Tobacco and Exchange Merchants' Guild by its secretary Chen Chia-pao. The motion pointed out the danger of excess issue of banknotes by unreliable banks and mentioned the financial calamity existing in Russia and Germany on account of the excess issue of paper money.

Wonderful Gowns Shown At Fashion Show At The Town Hall Country Fair

Evening Display, Which Is To Be Repeated Today At 5.30 O'clock, Attracts Great Throng—Fair Closes Tonight After Successful Run

By Westa

YOU will discover, stranger, as you journey through life, that certain of the spectacles that fall within the range of your vision can be looked upon practically without any optical effort whatsoever —— without any more strain on your visional apparatus than was placed upon the joyful lamps of a certain henpecked husband of a rasping, nagging wife who stood upon the station platform as the train bearing the lady of his tortures was carried away toward a six months' visit with her relatives, and who chortled, as the tailend Pullman vanished in a cloud of dust: "Ye Gods, I'll say the back end of that old train looks good to me, and the faster it moves the better it looks!"

However, speaking of spectacles that can be looked upon with the absolute minimum of eye strain, you are commended to the fashion show that is a daily feature of the country fair now being held at the Town Hall by the American Woman's club. There, at six o'clock this evening—which by the way will be the last appearance of Shanghai's most beautiful women in the most beautiful gowns ever exhibited in this city—a spectacle will be staged that can be looked upon with just about the same visional effort that is required to note the movements of the old ghost when he stalks forth in all his opulent munificence on Number One day.

SURPRISES EVERYBODY

The fashion show was staged Thursday evening, and again last evening, and was voted by all the thousands of visitors at the fair to be the outstanding featuure in an affair that has surpassed the expectations of all who have seen it. And before any more is said about the fashion show it must, in all justice, be noted that the great success of this part of the fair is due to the untiring energy, the great ability and the unvarying tact of Mrs. B. A. Padon. It was Mrs. Padon who induced the ladies who are exhibiting the gowns to go to the trouble and fuss that such exhibitions involve and to give of their time and effort toward making the fair a success. It was she, too, who spurred the modistes and designers to the unparalleled effort they have displayed in designing and making the gowns and frocks that have won such unstinted approval at the fair.

At yesterday's fashion display there was a beautiful and varied assortment of afternoon and evening gowns, capes, cloaks, hats and shoes—an array that was even more dazzling and beautiful than the one of the day before. In the East end of the hall a platform was erected, and each "model" used this for a display of the particular gown she exhibited, the spectators, meantime, standing around in closely banked rows, their eyes popping out from sheer joy over the beauty and magnificence of the spectacle. Each of the women who wore the gowns was generously applauded as she left the platform. In the order of their appearance the gowns displayed, and the women who wore them were as follows:

Mrs. Smith appeared in an afternoon gown of blue soutache braid, with orange lining, by Elegante.

Mrs. Gay's first gown was an afternoon frock of nigger brown silk, appliqued in petals of sapphire blue broad cloth. This was by Maison Parisienne.

Mrs. Wall's first afternoon gown display was a black taffeta affair with white lace, with a black and white hat to match. The gown was from the Salon de Mode.

Mrs. Reddington was next with an afternoon gown of black Georgette crepe with Persian fringe and figured Oriental sashes. With this she wore a Pan velvet hat with patent leather trimmings. The gown was from the Salon de Mode.

Mrs. Vandevere appeared in an afternoon gown of black taffeta from Elegante. With it she wore a mauve colored hat of Pan velvet.

Mrs. Haskell's first gown was an Elegante creation for afternoon wear, of cerise Georgette crepe, trimmed with black lace. With it

Threats of a strike of employes of the Shanghai-Nanking and Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railways are reported in the Chinese press.

The reports state that the men held a meeting at Woosung Thursday at which it was decided to call a strike unless certain wage demands were met.

The men passed a resolution demanding that in the future the minimum wages for foremen be $100 a month, blacksmiths $60 a month, carpenters $36 a month, mechanics $60 a month, and apprentices $36 a month.

In addition they ask that when they are compelled to work after 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoons they be given two holidays during the week, and that employees disabled while in the performance of their duty be given one year's wages as a pension and continue to receive their monthly wages.

GEN. LI HOU-CHI COMING HERE AS AIDE COLLAPSES

Little Hsu Promises To Send News To China Press From Fukien

(Special To The China Press)

Foochow, Oct. 20.—Ex-Tuchun Li Hou-chi, who is still in a gunboat at Mamoi, will leave for Shanghai shortly. He is in receipt of a telegram from General Sze Ting-yang stating that the troops of General Kao Chuan-chung are changing their allegiance.

An official telegraphic announcement was received yesterday by The China Press from Little Hsu. It reads:

"On the 17th inst., I entered Foochow at 3 p.m. Tuchun Li Hou-chi had previous to this time left the city with his family. Permit me to send you news of the future political developments here later."

Three thousand Fukien stragglers are infesting the town of Pusien without food and clothing, according to a telegram received here by the Chinese Red Cross Society yesterday from the Pusien branch office, which is appealing for aid from the headquarters here. The message stated that 56 members of eleven families of Fukien military officers are being sent to Shanghai under the care of the society.

AMERICAN MILLS SET SILK RECORD DURING AUGUST

Consumption Ten Thousand Bales Over July Figures

A raw silk consumption greater than for any month since figures on the subject began to be compiled in February 1920, just before the breaking of the silk bubble, was registered by American mills during August last, according to figures received here.

Approximate deliveries to the mills in August, the figures show, reached a total of 34,772 bales, a jump of almost 10,000 bales over the July figures. The highest previous figure for deliveries was 33,842 bales in January of this year.

Imports during the month were 39,813 bales, compared with 25,575 bales imported in July, and with 40,177 bales, the highest point since February, 1920, also reached in January, 1922.

Stocks on hand in the principal warehouses of New York reported to the association on September 1, totaled 32,515 bales, the highest figure since January, 1921, and about 5,000 bales in advance of the storage figures for August 1.

The great consumption of raw silk probably arises from the fact that heavy fabrics, necessitating large poundage, are being woven, and because of the widespread use of silk by the knitting trades, as the broad silk and ribbon trades are reported to be operating much under norma[l].

THREE FORGERY CASES HEARD IN AMERICAN COURT

L. S. Armstrong Who Was Taken In Vladivostok After Chase Admits Guilt

L. S. Armstrong, who was arrested by American authorities in Vladivostok after a chase through a large portion of China and into Siberia, pleaded guilty yesterday morning in the United States Court for China to charges of forgery. After the plea had been entered Mr. Cornell S. Franklin, who appeared for Armstrong, made a strong plea for mercy from the court by reason of extenuating circumstances, and judgment in the case was reserved.

Armstrong was charged with having forged a check on the American-Oriental Bank at Nanking on August 1 for $574. He made the check appear as coming from Mr. J. P. Bostick, treasurer of the North China Baptist Mission, and passed it on Mr. J. B. Loucks.

On the second charge he was alleged to have forged an American passport belonging to Mr. Earl L. Hibbard, by making certain erasures and substitutions, including the photograph of himself. Armstrong attempted to use the passport in Japan but the Japanese authorities noticed signs of the erasures and sent him back to Vladivostok, where he was arrested by the American authorities, and then brought to Shanghai.

John M. Nelson and Eugene Hickey were also charged with forgery before Judge Lobingier yesterday. Both are alleged to be implicated, in the same forgery, which was a forged check on the American-Oriental Bank for $39.41.

An Apology —And A Boost!

Eveningstar
Shanghai,

Birthday issue unmentioned independent news service.

The above telegram received from Mr. Peter S. Jowe at Hankow explains itself to the many readers of this newspaper who have read the Independent News Service's dispatches from Hankow. Mr. Jowe's service covers the territory about Hankow more completely than any other service from every point of view. On stories concerning the political situation the Independent News Service is unbeatable.

We owe an apology to the Independent News Service for failing to mention it in our 'birthday' announcement. The truth is we have so many excellent features in The Evening Star we can't remember them all at one time.

The Independent News Service has no need to feel slighted, however. The excellence of its dispatches leaves no room for 'boosting.'

LLOYD GEORGE QUITS OFFICE; BONAR LAW TO FORM CABINET

Premier Resigns After Affront By Conservatives

BRINGS CRISIS

Coalition Unionist Ministers Sign Strong Protest

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 19.—A high tribute to Mr. Lloyd George and strong disagreement at the action adopted at the meeting at the Carlton Club is expressed in a notable manifesto signed by the Coalition Unionist Ministers, headed by Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Lord Birkenhead, Earl Balfour, Sir Robert Horne, Sir I. Worthington-Evans and Lord Lee.

The signatories point out that the resolution passed meant that the Conservative Party would no consent to Mr. Lloyd George retaining the Premiership after a successful election, however much he and his party might contribute to the result. The signatories said that they could not convey such a message.

After glowingly eugolising the Premier's services, no less after than during the war, in handling domestic and foreign problems, the writers criticise the members of their own party who invited them to send the Premier a letter of dismissal.

London, October 10.—The Prime Minister announced to a deputation of the Miners' Federation at Downing Street, today, that the King has accepted his resignation.

Mr. Bonar Law has undertaken the formation of a Ministry.

(China Press Service)

London, Oct. 19.—At a meeting held yesterday at the Carlton club the Conservative party decided by 186 votes to 87 to go before their constituents as the Independent Conservative party.

The British cabinet has resigned in a body.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 19.—The decision of the Executive Committee of the National Union of Conservative Associations, which, it is important to remember, controls the party war chest, to convoke an emergency party conference is the most dramatic incident in recent political history because it is a direct defiance of Mr. Austen Chamberlain as it is repudiating beforehand the decision of the meeting he has convoked for the Carlton Club today and is clearly directed against the compromise which it has been freely suggested will be the outcome of today's meeting.

The Executive Committee considers that the Carlton meeting is not sufficiently representative. The decision has startled Downing Street where Mr. Chamberlain immediately convoked a meeting of the Conservative Ministers at his residence at which the situation was the subject of a protracted discussion.

The Conservative press today hopes that Mr. Bonar Law will intervene at the meeting at the Carlton Club and somehow save the situation.

London, Oct. 19.—A crowd gathered early in the neighborhood of the Carlton Club to witness the arrivals at the momentous Unionist Conference which is to decide the fate of the coalition.

There was some excitement when the Independent Conservative, Mr. James Erskine and the aged Viscount Chaplin, both of whom were uninvited, arrived. As the former had been talking of forcing an entrance, both were quietly admitted by the police who were restraining a rush of pressmen who expected a scuffle with Mr. Erskine. The latter left in a few minutes saying that he was unable to force an entrance to the meeting room but Viscount Chaplin remained inside though he was not allowed to participate in the proceedings.

The arrivals were witnessed in silence until Mr. Bonar Law appeared when he was cheered. Later cheers and boos greeted Mr. Austen Chamberlain, while Lord Birkenhead smilingly acknowledged boos and cries of Judas.

Earl Balfour was given an ovation with cheering and hand clapping.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain was cheered on taking the chair. He strongly urged maintenance of the Coalition and appealed for Conservative unity.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, President of the Board of Trade, on behalf of himself and his colleague Sir A. Griffith-Boscawen, Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, opposed the continuance of the Coalition. He suggested that the decision should be postponed until the meeting of the Unionist Association had taken place.

Colonel Pretyman introduced a motion expressing the opinion that the Conservatives were willing to co-operate with the Coalition Liberals but that they should fight the election independently with their own leader and program.

Several members, including Mr. Bonar Law who was given an ovation, supported the motion. Earl Balfour and Colonel Leslie Wilson wholeheartedly supported Mr. Chamberlain.

There was no motion of confidence. Mr. Chamberlain submitted for adoption Colonel Pretyman's motion which was communicated to the Premier by Sir Philip Sassoon.

The meeting decided by 186 votes to 87 in favor of going to the country as an independent Conservative party.

The vote, which would have been a huge surprise yesterday, was practically a foregone conclusion after the Party executive Committee's decision and the Newport result but the size of the majority proved a sensation.

Mr. Bonar Law's speech is regarded as accountable for it. He said he had reached the conclusion that the Government had lost the confidence of the country. He mentioned that he had warned the Government some time ago that the effect of a Coalition would be to drive the country into the arms of Labor.

The vote has had the expected result of the announcement of the resignation of a number of Unionist Ministers, namely, Colonel Leslie Wilson, the Chief Whip, Sir A. Griffith-Boscawen, Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, Mr. Amery, Viscount Peel, Secretary of State for India Mr. Stanley Baldwin, President of the Board of Trade, Captain H. D. King, Lieut. Col. A. Buchley, Sir J. L. Baird and Sir Philip Lloyd-Greame.

Those in close touch with the Premier said that the latter anticipated the result of the meeting and is in no way depressed but on the contrary was in excellent spirits when he received the figures.

Mr. Bonar Law, who after the meeting was warmly congratulated by a number of those present, is regarded as the possible head of the next Government.

The Premier conferred with the leading members of the Cabinet after which he was received in audience by his Majesty at Buckingham Palace. The King had returned specially from Sandringham.

London, October 19.—An account of today's events officially gathered at 10 Downing Street shows that Mr. Lloyd George in tendering his resignation advised his Majesty to summon Mr. Bonar Law. It transpires that, in accordance with a prearranged plan in the event of a defeat at the Unionist Conference at the Carlton Club, Mr. Auston Chamberlain went direct to Downing Street after the meeting to surrender his office. Later other ministers did the same at a meeting with Mr. Lloyd George prior to his seeing his Majesty.

Mr. Lloyd George's Leeds engagement on October 21 holds good (but his speech will be made in a different capacity).

Later in the evening Mr. Lloyd George presided at a meeting of the Coalition Liberals in the Ministry. Mr. Lloyd George's visit to His Majesty lasted twenty minutes.

In view of the change in the political position the national Unionist Association has decided to abandon the special emergency conference and also to postpone the Annual Conference on November 10 sine die.

Mr. Bonar Law's visit to His Majesty when he undertook the task of forming a Ministry lasted twenty minutes.

Mr. Bonar Law explained to His Majesty that his acceptance of the task of forming a Ministry was dependent on his election as Unionist leader by a meeting of Lords and Commoners of the same political complexion.

He represented that the Conservatives at the present moment were without an officially recognised leader. It is understood that this meeting of Members of Parliament will possible be held on Sunday.

The Labor Party Headquarters report that their plans are complete for an immediate election.

Paris, Oct. 19.—There was much excitement in the Chamber of Deputies at the news of the resignation of the British Government. The predominant feeling was one of relief.

Gold And Silver Workers' Strike Partly Settled

The strike of gold and silver smiths is partially settled. On Thursday workers in 16 of the smaller shops returned to their jobs, having been granted a wage increase of 40 percent. Workers in the larger shops, said to involve 14 establishments, however, have refused an offer of 20 percent and are still out.

The silver and gold workers' strike has been in effect for over a fortnight and had been at a deadlock until Thursday because of the employers' refusal to recognise the workers' union. The question of union recognition is still unsettled, it is reported.

Pastor Who Preached Roosevelt's Funeral Service Visits China

Among the passengers arriving in Shanghai by the steamer President Jefferson Thursday was the Rev. E. T. Talmage, pastor of Christ's Church, Oyster Bay, New York, who preached the funeral sermon over the body of former President Theodore Roosevelt.

The Rev. Talmage was born in China, the son of pioneer American missionaries at Amoy and returns to this country to visit some of the scenes of his early youth. His church at Oyster Bay is that which was attended by Col. Roosevelt.

Wonderful Gowns At Fashion Show

she wore a pretty little turban of metallic cloth.

Mrs. Rodger appeared in one of Nelda Ring's afternoon gowns in which the top part was of green jade crepe de chine and the skirt of black charmeuse, with trimming of monkey fur. Her hat was of black velour. With this gown Mrs. Rodger carried a long "thumbe high" staff of black walnut with silver handle.

Miss Perkes' first appearance was in a dainty tailored affair of gaberdine, trimmed with henna, and with chenille scarf and hat to match. This suit was designed by Ethel Cameron, who, by the way, was the designer of the suit that Miss Perkes wore on the previous day, instead of Mahriah, as erroneously stated. After her display of this suit Miss Perkes exhibited a waist length coat of velour de laine and Astrakan, one of Miss Cameron's recent American importations, as was also the hat worn with it. It was a very smart combination. This hat was a sort of semi turban, with but the suggestion of a brim. It was very becoming.

Mrs. Smith then displayed the first of the dinner gowns, a satin affair with black Chantilly lace overlay, the drapes of which were caught with a rosette at the side. This was from the Elegante shops.

Mrs. Gay's first dinner gown was a creation from the "Femina" studios, a flame colored creation trimmed with monkey fur, and with jet ornaments. With this she wore a Gage hat of black velvet from the side of which fell a long sash of crepe lace. The hat was from Maison Parisienne. This was an exceedingly effective combination and lost nothing of its beauty in the charming manner of its display by Mrs. Gay.

Then came Mrs. Reddington again, this time in a green velour evening gown with Persian silk lining. With this she wore a very effective head dress in the form of a bando which held a black paradise feather, and which was trimed in silver. This was from the Salon de Mode, and was very becoming. The dress was extra long, and held up at the side with a wrist loop.

Miss Perkes then exhibited an afternoon gown of red Georgette crepe with embroidery trimming, worn with a Dovaline hat with silver embroidery trimming. This gown was by Mahriah.

Mrs. Wall's first evening gown was of crepe de chine brocaded in gold, with gold cloth underslip. From one of the shoulders a fringe surrounded. This was a Salon de Mode creation.

A "FEMINA" CREATION

Mrs. Smith's next display was another Femina gown, this time a evening frock of black lace over gold cloth, loose fitting and long waisted. This was a very pretty thing excellently displayed by Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Vandevere came next in an Elegante dinner gown of shot taffeta, blue and gold, and with which she carried a blue ostrich feather fan. The gown was caught with roses at the side, and one of the shoulder straps was intertwined with roses.

Mrs. Haskell's first contribution to the evening gown displays was a Pan velvet thing by Rosemary. It had jet shoulder straps and a girdle of roses. The bodice was of metal cloth in black and gold. Very pretty.

Mrs. Roger then appeared again in the gown, designed by herself, which she wore on the previous day. This was of gold cloth and Pan velvet, with grey georgette over the shoulders. With it she carried a beautiful fan. She also wore large earrings of Roman design.

Mrs. Gay was next with an evening gown from Maison de Parisienne, a dress of apple green [illegible] ornamented with pearls and silver sequins. With this she wore a rose colored cape with a flowered collar. She carried a beautiful fan.

Miss Perkes' next evening gown was of brocaded pink, with gold lining and jet ornaments. This was by Mahriah. With this dress she wore a cape with a beautifully flowered collar, and carried a fan.

MRS. SMITH'S GOWN

Mrs. Smith's next evening gown was of Georgette crepe embroidered in gold, and with a green and silver girdle. This was by Elegante.

Mrs. Wall then exhibited an evening gown from the Salon de Mode, of henna velvet trimmed with monkey fur and ostrich feather fringe. With it she wore a henna colored cape trimmed with monkey fur.

Then came what doubtless was the most striking and original creation of the whole display—a Rosemary creation fashioned like the sequin gowns, but with larger sequins. They were small discs, in fact, and the gown was plain and very close fitting, giving Mrs. Haskell, who wore it, a mermaid effect. In color it was a sort of fuchsia red, being as unique in color as it was in design. It certainly was a vampy thing. The bottom part was cut into strips, giving it a sort of Oriental flavor, and around the waist it was in overlapping sections, or plates, like a knight's armor. Mrs. Haskell looked as though she hardly knew whether she liked it or not, although she certainly displayed it with wonderful ease and grace, considering its rather "mechanical" design and construction.

Mrs. Smith, who was last to appear, came out next with an evening gown from Elegante, of shot taffeta with a large bow at one side, and strands of pearls on the other.

That was all, thank you, and also thanking Mrs. Perkes, who probably would tell you, if you asked her, that trying to get the facts about a flock of gowns into the thick skull of a basenail writer who reluctantly consented to pinch hit in the absence of a regular society reporter is about the most hopeless and impossible task in the world.

SECURITY
YOUR strongest business and personal asset is a feeling of financial security,—a knowledge that whatever may happen to you, your dependents will be cared for.
IN those days of economic uncertainty, it is more important than ever for foresighted men to make arrangements which will guarantee a comfortable living to their dependents. A man cannot afford to "take chances" with the welfare of his wife and children. They must be provided for first and foremost. Security of living must be guaranteed to them.
THE feeling that you have made such provision is a powerful factor in the strengthening of the self-confidence and self-reliance upon which your chances for success largely depend. The only certain way to create absolute economic security for your dependents is by a life insurance policy in a sound and responsible company.

To Hear Arguments Today In Dr. Martin's Action At British Supreme Court

Taking Of Evidence Concluded At Yesterday's Hearing; Defendant Is Cross-Examined

Arguments will be heard this morning in the case of Dr. Paul Martin versus P. W. Pate in the British Court, evidence in the action having been completed yesterday afternoon with the reading of the deposition of Mrs. Pate, taken before she left for Victoria, where she is now residing.

Dr. Martin is sueing for Taels 125, claimed as fees for attendance on Mrs. Pate while she was ill at the Palace Hotel last January.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Pate, the defendant, was cross-examined by Mr. Schuhl and Miss Hilda May Salter, a registered nurse, was the only other witness. In Mr. Pate's testimony it was brought out that actions have been filed against Dr. Martin for damages in the United States Court for China. Mrs. Pate is suing for Taels 20,000 while Mr. Pate asks Taels 10,000.

Mr. Pate insisted that Dr. Martin refused a consultation and denied that plaintiff mentioned either Dr. Bryson or Dr. Neild in this connection.

Witness denied that he called Dr. Martin a "murderer," but admitted that he had written letters which described the physician in uncomplimentary terms.

At the hearing yesterday morning Dr. H. Fresson refused to answer some of the questions put to him in cross-examination by Mr. Schuhl.

Judge Grain remarked that as Dr. Fresson was a French citizen and outside the jurisdiction of the British Court he could not compel him to do so, and added that he had attended merely as a matter of courtesy.

Mr. L. K. Kentwell appeared for the defendant.

Dr. Fresson was cross-examined by Mr. Schuhl.

I think you said at the last hearing that it was rather unusual for a patient's temperature to rise from 100 to 104. You still contend that that is an accurate statement?

OBJECTS TO QUESTIONING

Dr. Fresson: I am quite willing to speak on medical subjects with a medical expert. You may be a very good lawyer but you do not understand medical subjects. I will not risk discussing with you a law subject but I am not going to discuss a medical subject with you.

The Judge: It is merely a question of opinion. There are certain questions that Mr. Schuhl has a right to ask, and you have a right, if I allow you, to refuse to reply. If it is a reasonable question I should say you have to answer it. I think the question that Mr. Schuhl has asked is a reasonable question. As an expert in medicine, is it possible for a person's temperature to rise from 100 to 104 in a day?

Dr. Fresson: What person, what circumstances, what sickness, under what state?

Mr. Schuhl: We will take a person, who has typhoid. Is it possible for the temperature to rise from 100 to 104?—

Dr. Fresson: Yes.

The Judge: I can understand your point of view. There are some extreme cases where extreme things happen.

Mr. Schuhl: You did not see Mrs. Pate until January 23?—I saw her on a Sunday morning.

You do not know in what condition she was in before that?—How can I know? I did not see her before.

Supposing, Dr. Fresson, you were called to see a patient who was suffering acute pain, would you consider it proper to prescribe morphine and atropine?

Dr. Fresson: You have no right to ask me what would happen in such cases. I refuse to answer any question of a supposed circumstance.

The Judge: I will put the question to you in another way. In case of extreme pain is there any objection to the morphine and atropine?

SAYS CASES DIFFER

Dr. Fresson: If you put the question to me as a medical expert I shall answer that pain is not always the primary symptom and there are many cases where the injection of morphine may cause more harm than it will relieve suffering.

Mr. Schuhl: It is very difficult for me to examine Dr. Fresson. He answered all questions that Mr. Kentwell asked him, but he refuses to answer the questions I ask.

The Judge: Up to the present, with my assistance, he has answered the questions.

Mr. Schuhl: Have you seen Dr. Lambert and talked to him about this case since you were here in this Court at the last hearing?

Dr. Fresson: I saw Dr. Lambert at the Medical Society yesterday and did not discuss this case with him.

Did you discuss the question of the X-Ray being brought into this Court?—No.

Did you ever tell Mr. and Mrs. Pate that Dr. Martin was a murderer? Mrs. Pate has testified that you did say that?

Dr. Fresson: I refuse to answer that question.

The Judge: It is better for you, Dr. Fresson, to answer that. Did you ever say to Mrs. Pate such a thing?

Dr. Fresson: It is absurd.

Mr. Schuhl: Do you know a physician by the name of Dr. Sawyer who is treating Mrs. Harding, the wife of the President, in New York? You have heard of the Mayo Brothers?—I have not only heard of the Mayo brothers, but I know the younger brother.

Are they experienced in their line?—Absolutely.

You say that if morphine is given in fever it is a very dangerous thing to do?—No, I said in infectious diseases, morphia must be given with great care.

Mr. Schuhl attempted to introduce in a clipping from the New York World regarding the treatment of Mrs. Harding by Dr. Mayo for floating kidney, but the Judge declined to admit it as it was not a medical report from a medical journal.

Is it possible for a person to have typhoid fever and a floating kidney?

WISHES TO RETIRE

Dr. Fresson: If you bring a medical man into this Court I shall discuss medical questions. I think I have said all I know about this case. I wish to be allowed to retire. I came by courtesy before the British Court. I do not see any reason why I should be subjected to cross-examination to which there are no answers except ridiculous answers.

The Judge: Well, Dr. Fresson, you are here by courtesy and I have no power to force you to answer. As you are not a British subject you are at liberty to do as you like. I cannot compel you to answer or to appear.

Dr. Fresson: Sometimes a matter of courtesy is much stronger.

Mr. Schuhl: Have you ever had consultations with Dr. Martin?—Yes.

In what case was that?—I had once a consultation with Dr. Martin.

Was it the case of Mrs. Beer?—I do not remember. It was a year or a year-and-a-half ago.

As far as you are concerned you have nothing against Dr. Martin?—Personally not.

How many X-Ray films or negatives were taken of Mrs. Pate?—I think two in the beginning and two after she was cured of typhoid fever.

In what position was she when these X-Ray films were taken?—She was unable to sit and had high fever and the pictures were taken when she was on the bed. There were some pictures taken standing but after she had already been cured of typhoid. I saw all these pictures.

Did that show the condition of the patient?—You can see from the pictures and as you are a medical expert, you can interpret them.

The Judge: What Dr. Fresson has already said is that the films did not show any abnormal condition.

Mr. Schuhl: How many dark shadows were there on this film?—You can get the films.

DIDN'T DISCUSS CASE

Do you know Dr. Ransom?—Yes. I think I have known him ever since I came here.

Have you discussed this case with Dr. Ransom?—Never spoke to him about it.

Mr. Schuhl put a question to Dr. Fresson regarding the Shanghai Medical Society. The witness interrupted: "I see you want to prove that all medical men belong to the Shanghai Medical Society and that the Society is a poor thing. I have to say that Dr. Martin did not find it useless."

Mr. Schuhl: It is practically impossible to examine this witness. He answered every question of Mr. Kentwell, and refuses to answer the questions I put to him.

The Judge: Dr. Fresson has attended this Court, as I have already pointed out, by courtesy.

Mr. Schuhl then asked for a motion to strike out the evidence of Dr. Fresson in the direct examination.

The Court denied Mr. Schuhl's motion, and the latter continued the cross-examination.

What is the difference between the diagnosis you made and Dr Martin's diagnosis in the case where you both treated Mrs. Beer?—I refuse to answer.

Dr. Martin diagnosed the case as a tumor and also gallstones. You diagnosed the case as something else. It was found later that Dr. Martin was correct?—What has that to do with the case.

Dr. Clyde Ford, United States Postal Agent, was the next witness called. He said he had been a medical officer in the United States Army for 24 years and had known Dr. Martin for the past six months. He gave testimony as to the symptoms and course of typhoid fever. Witness expressed the opinion that injection of morphine and atropine was usual when patients are suffering from severe pain.

Percy W. Pate, the defendant, went on the stand. He said he called Dr. Martin to see his wife on January 9. When he received the bill from the physician for 13 day visits, he doubted it and checked up the dates the doctor called with Miss Salter, the nurse who was with Mrs. Pate.

He said his wife was suffering severe pain the night he called in Dr. Martin and the latter diagnosed the case as floating kidney and injected morphine. The patient slept until 3 o'clock in the morning. Her temperature was 101.

The next afternoon Mrs. Pate went shopping and was obliged to go to the doctor's office, witness continued. Dr. Martin ordered her to Dr. Fearn's Hospital.

PARIS MOSQUE IS BEGUN WITH FRIENDLY WORD

Marshal Lyautey Stresses The Sympathy Of France For Mohammedan World

(French Wireless)

Paris, October 19.—Today was laid in Paris the first stone of a mosque. Marshal Lyautey was present and emphasised the respect of France for Islam.

The Marshal affirmed the sympathy of France for "the effort at national reconstruction under the direction of the true statesman, which Kemal Pasha has revealed himself to be."

Sidi Sadoon Ben Ghabrit, replying, said that the tribute of liberal views which France has paid to Islam would assure the most cordial reciprocity.

France had not only accorded to Islam civil rights in her capital but was spreading far and wide its appeal to the affection of Musulmen. France would have no cause to repent of her attitude.

Asks For Removal Of Kiangsu Chief

The Kiangsu residents in Peking have petitioned the Central Government asking the dismissal of Yen Chia-chi, Financial Commissioner of the Province, on account of the chaotic condition of finances in Kiangsu. Yen was one of the promoters of the $7,000,000 bond issue which was recently sanctioned by the Wang Chung-hui Cabinet.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

Y. W. C. A. TEAMS WORKING HARD TO REACH GOAL SET

Six Days More To Make Up $16,000 Budget Fund

At the last meeting of the executive committee of the Y. W. C. A. Finance Campaign there was frank facing of the hard work still to be done by the fourteen teams before the desired $16,000 is fully raised. Six working days remain between now and the closing rally on the afternoon of Thursday, October 26. The total return thus far reported are $5,751. Two-thirds of the money is still therefore to be raised in one half the time.

Many of the most invaluable team-workers are also giving much time during these three days to the American Woman's Club Country Fair; but there has been the most cordial understanding between the two groups concerned, who in many instances overlap, and those who this week end are taking time out for the Fair, plan to redouble their efforts in the remaining days of the campaign next week.

The members of the executive committee of the Y. W. C. A. campaign are; Mrs. C. W. Atkinson, Mrs. K. H. Chen, Mrs. C. S. Lobingier, Mrs. E. L. March, Mrs. H. C. Mei, Mrs. Sung Vung-Yoen, Miss Lucy Sung, Mrs. S. M. Woo and Mrs. P. C. Kwok, Campaign Treasurer. The committee is meeting regularly at the campaign headquarters at 11 A Quinsan Road, the compound of the local Y. W. C. A. Its plans are carried out through a series of campaign rallies at which the 111 workers bring in their returns and are given new lists of names.

Many gifts are coming in small sums of $5, $10, and $25, which indicates a response to the work of the Y. W. C. A. on the part of a very large number of citizens. Each such gift, however, means a personal call on the part of two team-workers, and this method takes a great deal of time. The campaign annual budget campaign is still comparatively new in China but through the years it has been tried by the Y. W. C. A. there has been such a friendly response to it as to indicate that the public approves this method against too many money making projects or the old plan of scattered appeals through the entire year. Two or three gifts of $500 or $1,000 at this stage of the campaign would be of incalculable encouragement to the army of young team workers who are still comparatively new to this form of community service.

Members of the executive committee are constantly reminded of the great wealth there is in Shanghai among the Chinese. As yet a very small number of Chinese have had any of the training or experience in giving as a part of one's civic responsibility which is so natural a matter in a country which has for generations been influenced by Christian civilisation. It is encouraging to note in this connection that several new $100 gifts have been received in this year's campaign from firms who have never before given.

There is also encouragement in the number of new young Chinese workers who are taking an active part in the campaign. If anyone doubts that there is incalculable hope for China in the rising generation of Chinese women let him attend one of the Y. W. C. A. rallies and watch these eager vivid young women come in with the report of their day's work, in friendly but keen competition for the honor of their teams. This sense of ownership in their own organisation, and of assurance that it is one of the big assets for the future development of their country, is a good omen for China.

While the Young Women's Christian Association was started in China chiefly under the leadership of American and British women, the whole aim of this work has been to become thoroughly Chinese as quickly as possible. The present year has seen a marked increase in the responsibility taken by the Chinese for its plans. For example the Secretarial Council of the national Y. W. C. A. is for the first time this year composed almost entirely of Chinese women, who plan with the national general secretary, Miss Rosalee Venable, for the work all over China. One of the big contributions the Association has this year been able to make to Chinese leadership has been the giving up of one of its most able secretaries, Miss Fan Yu Jung, to become the woman secretary for the staff of the new National Christian Council. Several distinctly Chinese projects just in their pioneering stages, depend in part for their future upon the success of this campaign, for example, the summer camp for girls conducted by the Y. W. C. A. at Kuling last summer—the first step in what will doubtless be a most popular feature in the development of Chinese womanhood all over China. An interesting piece of new work right here in Shanghai is the small public health center which is being started on the outskirts of the city by the students of the Y. W. C. A. Training School of Hygiene and Physical Education. Here the children of the neighborhood are being given practical lessons in health and play and the students are thus getting an opportunity for trying out their newly learned theories.

The largest piece of work before the national Y. W. C. A. this winter is the planning for the first national convention of the organisation which is to be held in the autumn of 1923. A program of work which will thus bring together women and girls from all parts of this divided country, that they may think of the civil needs of China as a whole, is a genuine piece of national service.

Here in the International Settlement interest is particularly keen in the plan of the Y. W. C. A. to begin some sort of work with foreign women, as soon as Miss Frances Cross arrives in Shanghai on October 24. Many women are giving generously of their time to the foreign teams, and a much appreciated part of the campaign work is being carried by the foreign Business Women's Team. All these groups are especially interested in this new piece of work. It is not known what form this international center will take in the way of providing hostel accommodations, a lunchroom, employment registry, or a social center, until the arrival of Miss Cross, but all those who are familiar with the work of the organisation in all parts of Europe and America in war time have no doubt as to the ability of the organisation to meet the particular needs of Shanghai in this connection.

The next rally for the campaign will be held at 11A Quinsan Road next Monday afternoon, October 25, from 4 to 5 o'clock.

Today Anniversary Of Nelson's Victory At Trafalgar

One hundred and seventeen years ago today Nelson won the battle of Trafalgar.

The story of his famous signal is probably well known to most of us. It ran "England expects that every man this day will do his duty."

As a matter of fact the first signal that the great admiral gave was "Nelson expects that every man this day will do his duty." It was his flag lieutenant that pointed out that the word 'Nelson' would require a number of flags, while 'England' would only need one. "Then let it be England," said Nelson.

Exhibition Chief Quits As Result Of Quarrel Over 'Eats'

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 19.—An acute controversy has developed as the result of the resignation of Mr. Robert Donald from the Committee of the British Empire Exhibition as a protest against the Committee's decision that it is impracticable to serve exclusively British Dominions' produce at the exhibition's restaurants.

Sir A. H. McMahon, Chairman of the Committee, replying to Mr. Donald says that hitherto it has been impossible to find caterers willing to undertake the business under the rigid restrictions advocated by Mr. Donald, but the Manager of the Exhibition has been instructed when negotiating with prospective caterers to do his utmost to meet the wishes of the Dominions, therefore, Mr. Donald's protest is groundless.

ORDERS WITHHELD

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 19.—At the annual meeting of Sir W. G. Whitworth and Co., Ltd., the Chairman said that the depression was due to deliberate withholding of orders in the hope that prices would be still further reduced but stocks all over the world were being rapidly exhausted and the policy of buying hand to month must in the near future result in the placing of larger orders.

New U. S. Consul Leaves For Post At Vladivostok

Mr. S. P. Tuck, new American Consul for Vladivostok, left for Japan yesterday on the steamer Porthos and will proceed thence to the Siberian port. His trip to Japan was occasioned by the receipt of word that the railway between Harbin and Vladivostok had been cut by the fighting Red and White troops.

Mr. Tuck was previously American Consul at Alexandria, from which point he was transferred to Vladivostok to relieve Consul Winslow. Mr. Tuck visited the Mixed Court here yesterday, sitting on the bench with American Assessor King and Magistrate Loh.

Sailor Convicted But Is Set Free

Louis Roff, who until his arrest was a member of the crew of a Shipping Board boat, was sentenced to 24 days in jail for carrying concealed weapons by Judge Charles S. Lobingier in the United States Court for China yesterday.

Roff was arrested in possession of two revolvers. He pleaded guilty with ignorance of the law as his only excuse. As he has already been in jail 24 days it was held that the sentence had been served and he was released.

PROSPECTS FOR RUGGER VERY BRIGHT THIS YEAR

"Rugger" prospects are bright for this year, with chances for the formation of a league here and the likelihood or interport matches with several outside teams, according to indications brought out at the annual general meeting last night of the Shanghai Rugby Football Club.

The meeting was largely attended, in the neighborhood of fifty members turning out, and there was a gratifying show of interest in the business of the meeting—everything, as the president, Mr. A. W. Burkill, commented, pointing to a very successful season.

Mr. Burkill was unanimously re-elected president, a post he has held for many years, though he expressed a willingness to make way for "new blood," and Mr H. P. McMeekin was elected Captain, with the Rev. C. E. Spencer vice-captain. The vice-presidents named were Captain E. I. M. Barrett, Mr. G. M. Billings, Mr. P. Fowler and Mr. Hugh Martin. Mr. J. Harder was named honorary secretary and Mr. Eustace honorary treasurer, while the other members of the committee are Messrs. S. H. Lewis, F. T. Ormiston and J. Snodgrass.

Speaking of the year's prospects Mr. Burkill said that the Machine Gun Company and Shanghai Scottish, of the S.V.C., had decided to organise teams, so that the hope for league matches was bright.

As regards interport games Hongkong, which was to have appeared last year, was likely to extend an invitation this season while it was understood that Tientsin would propose a three-cornered contest at Hankow, which sort of competition had been hoped for last year when the local men journeyed to the up-river city.

The Club was starting the year, the president commented, with a balance of $158.92, whereas last year began with a deficit, and the increase in members, 55, was most satisfactory.

The report of the sub-committee for the revision of the rules was presented by Mr. Lewis and was adopted by the meeting, one rule, that dealing with the disciplining of members, to be redrafted. It was also decided to allow the committee authority to co-opt two members in case of need, as in the instance of navy men.

It was stated by the chairman that letters had been received from the Shanghai Cricket Club and Recreation Club kindly offering the use of grounds for play.

SAYS "BUGS" Baer: DOES IT TAKE MORE THAN ONE?

Irritated Buffalonian Thinks It Takes Two To Make A Fight

There still seems to be plenty of six-syllable squawks being registered against that Wills-Tut Jackson act.

Christopher Feinle, Jr., of Buffalo, who was spending the week-end of his bankroll in Brooklyn at the time Mr. Tut fought and fled, makes himself attorney for about 20,000 morose spectators.

He claims that Mr. Tut did not battle as advertised. He didn't weigh 200 pounds. He wasn't six feet high. And he didn't have a punch like a twenty-mule team.

Therefore, he thinks that sport writers are to blame for shillabering Tut all over the lot.

But Christopher, Jr., forgets that he didn't go there to see Tut as advertised. Although what happened was as one-sided as a trial by a Ku Klux jury, he went there to see Harry Wills exaggerate his stuff.

Mr. Wills pulled his goods and stretched his merchandise all over the circus grounds. He knocked Tut pale.

That's all any possible champ can do. When the bees started humming, Tut started towards the resin which has excellent medicinal properties for the cure of stings.

They won't let Dempsey migrate around the works pushing over wax figures, but they do let Wills.

Jack is the first champion who has been denied the champ's privilege of the slap-stick. John L. used to clown with the neighbor's children. Corbett toured the country, putting the heavy finger on set-ups. Leonard toys with competitors who haven't got any more chance than a handcuffed pickpocket.

They did it different in the bad old days. Any man who stayed four rounds with the chief bully got $1,000.

Kearns and Dempsey might get fights the same way. People used to come many a mountain mile to see Sullivan knock the boys for a sanitarium certificate.

If Dempsey fought Brennan again, the bugs wouldn't turn on for Brennan. They'd go just to see Dempsey do his routine.

They pay to see champion champ.

Yak-Tail Trails

disappeared into the welter of Asia's mystic backwashes, lost their Christianity and became Mohammedans, while their conquerors became steeped in Buddhism and in time also passed into dim history. The young students who had followed the yak-tail trail from Siberia through many strange tribes into this ancient sedimentary deposit of medieval greatness knew only the later facts of this remarkable story. They knew that the Kirei today are Mohammedans, and that the surrounding Mongols are an admixture of Buddhists and Shamanists. They knew that their customs were different for they lived in their yurts among them. If they had known, then, of Prester John, what a remarkable pilgrimage it would have been!

KIREI WOMEN

The Kirei women near Guenchen—for the Kirei there are only a branch of the larger number who live along the Kobdo river, in the Western Altais and on the Black Irtysh river—dress in black garb, a compromise between a skirt and trousers, and wear for headdress a white arrangement resembling that worn by Catholic nuns. The men dress somewhat after the style of their Mongolian neighbors, but have a fondness for brighter colors. Both the men and women are larger, more sturdy and more intelligent specimens of humanity, Serge and his companions found, and are strict followers of the Prophet, forgoing pork, making the pilgrimage to Mecca if humanly possible, and practicing prohibition without a Kirei Volstead to crack the whip over their heads and pour plebian water down their parched throats.

The Kirei home, or yurt, resembles the Mongol yurt only in general appearance at a distance. On close inspection the horsemen in the calvacade discovered that the felt was generally clean and the interior not so smoke begrimed as the yurts of the Mongols. Instead of skins, felt carpets covered the floor, a bed rested in the corner, and several gaudy boxes for their belongings and many cooking pots and pans and koumiss bags were hung about the combination kitchenette, sleeping quarters, sitting room and parlor.

The Kirei talked and acted as equals with the Russians in contrast with the abject serflike attitude of the Mongols as a general rule, leading Serge to conclude that despite the fact that both Kirie and Mongols are nomads, shifting their sheep camps with the range and living in close proximity to each other, and with somewhat similar habits and pursuits Mohammedanism had made stronger, more intelligent and much better beings out of the Kirei than the Mongols, deserters from Christianity had acquired from a lamanistic variety of Buddhism and Shamanism.

After two days among the Kirei, with their fantastic and picturesque ancestry dimmed by centuries of uncertain history Serge and the other members of the calvacade were invited to go on a hunt for gazelle and mountain sheep before continuing on their journey to Barkul, around the rim of the Gobi desert, and down into Tibet.

The next installment of 'The Yak-Tail Trail' tells the story of the gazelle and mountain sheep hunt in the mountains near the Kirei encammment at Guenchen and the continuation of the long trek to Barkul.

Long Hearing In Chinese Arson Case

There was a lengthy hearing in the Mixed Court before Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li yesterday of the case in which a shop assistant is charged with arson in conection with the burning of a lace shop at 139 Tientsin Road, the fire having occurred on October 8.

Dr. H. C. Mei appeared to ask for cancellation of a warrant issued for the proprietor of the shop, stating that the reason for his client's absence was the sickness and death of his father and the fact that he himself was at present ill. The motion was opposed by Mr. R. C. Faithfull, for the police, and the evidence of several witnesses was taken.

Mr. J. G. Dyson, acting chief of the Fire Department described the fire and said that the firemen discovered two buckets, one containing a mixture of kerosene and paraffin and the other burned out and quantities of shavings and newspapers. The case was adjourned.

The insurance involved amounts to $5,000.

Peking Notes

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 20.—It is officially stated that no date has yet been fixed for the Russo-Chinese Conference, for which a preliminary condition has been laid down that the Russians before the Conference should agree to evacuate Mongolia but this would probably be waived if it should be arranged that the negotiations would include the withdrawal of Russian troops from Mongolia.

Peking, Oct. 20.—The Portuguese Government has conferred the Grand Cross on Dr. W. W. Yen, Mr. Shen Jui-lin (Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs) and Mr. Liu Fu-cheng (Postal Director).

Peking, Oct. 20.—The British Chamber of Commerce is giving a reception at Sir Francis Aglen's residence this afternoon to Britons in order to bid farewell to Sir Beilby Alston.

The Waichiaopu is placing a special car at the retiring British Minister's disposal on the morning train on Monday, when Sir Beilby Alston leaves for Shanghai.

Peking, Oct. 20.—The Lunghai railway authorities have established communications with the Greek and the Frenchman who were captured by bandits and are negotiating with the bandits for their release.

The Frenchman, M. Abel, whom bandits captured in Heilungkiang, has been released and reached Pukutow Station today.

No further information has been received regarding the captured American missionaries in Honan.

Professors Arrive For China Service

Dr. Orrin H. Smith of Mount Vernon, Iowa, recently professor of physics at Cornell College, arrived in Shanghai on the President Jefferson en route to Changsha to become an advisor to the Southeastern University.

Japanese Prince Regent's Betrothal Is Celebrated

The Prince Regent went to the Imperial Palace at about 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning after Count Tokugawa, grand chamberlain to the Emperor, through Viscount Makino, Minister of the Imperial Household, had informed him that Prince Kuni had consented to his engagement to Princess Nagako, says the Japan Advertiser. Clad in ancient court costume and accompanied by Prince Kujo, chief ritualist, the Prince Regent went at once to the Imperial Shrine, where he announced his engagement to the spirits of his ancestors. Princes and Princesses of the Blood, other princes and princesses and high officials of the Imperial Household were present.

After the Shinto rites prescribed for Imperial betrothals were completed the Prince Regent thanked the Emperor and Empress for granting him permission to wed Princess Nagako. He then returned to Kasumigaseki Palace, where he received members of the Imperial Family and high officials, who congratulated him upon his betrothal.

MANY GIFTS PRESENTED

Count Tokugawa, grand chamberlain, arrived at the residence of Prince Kuni in Shimo-Shibuya at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, an official ushering him into the Hall o. the Chrysanthemum, where Prince and Princess Kuni greeted him. When the father and mother of the Princess destined to be the next Empress of Japan were seated the Imperial delegate announced that he was going to present the gifts of the Emperor and Empress which would seal the engagement of their daughter to the Prince Regent. He handed Prince Kuni a message from the Emperor approving the union. Prince Kuni read it and handed the paper to Princess Kuni. After she had read the message Prince Kuni placed it beside the betrothal gift of five rolls of silk, a cask of sake and a box containing two tai. The Prince advanced to the messenger and gave formal consent to the betrothal, Count Tokugawa withdrawing at once to another room.

Princess Nagako was ushered into the Hall of the Chrysanthemum, and Count Tokugawa returned, handing a list of the betrothal gifts to Prince Kuni. After both he and Princess Kuni had read the list, it was given to Princess Nagako. Prince Kuni thanked the Imperial messenger for the honor, and the ceremony was ended.

Princess Nagako received members of her family and friends, who congratulated her immediately after the messenger departed. The members of the Kuni family held a banquet last night to celebrate the occasion. The betrothal was announced at the shrine of the Kuni family yesterday morning.

PRINCESS DECORATED

Prince and Princess Kuni attended the ceremony at the Imperial Palace when the Prince Regent announced the betrothal at the shrine of his ancestors and were received by the Emperor and Empress. Princess Nagako was decorated in the afternoon with the First Class Order of the Crown instead, as has been announced, of the Sacred Treasure. Later Mr. Irie, grand chamberlain to the Prince Regent, presented Princess Nagako with the gift of the Prince Regent, the small betrothal sword.

Ceremonies marking the acceptance by Prince Kuni of the betrothal gifts to Princess Nagako were held at the Imperial Shrino yesterday afternoon, after which Prince and Princess Kuni again were received by the Emperor and Empress.

The betrothal was announced at the Ise Shrine, the grave of Jimmu Tenno and at the Momoyama mausolea yesterday morning by representatives sent from Tokyo for that purpose, and the chief priests of the shrines conducted special ceremonies.

Jenny was a sheltered daughter, all right. Her dear old Dad wouldn't even let her read the newspapers, for fear she would learn that there were such things as evil and scandal in the world! And then one day Jenny, the sheltered daughter, was in a front-page story, a scandal, and an international one at that! Of course, her part in the affair was quite an innocent one, but Dad concluded that he couldn't be responsible for her any longer, and so turned her over, with his blessing, to the nicest man in the world, who was glad to assume the burden of keeping Jenny safe.

Industrial Development In China

THE great development of the cotton milling industry in China during recent years is strikingly shown in the official trade statistics recently announced by the Chinese Maritime Customs for the 1921 calendar year, says Pacific Ports. In 1913 China imported 19,794,857 pieces of cotton goods, chiefly from Great Britain. In 1920 this total shrunk to 13,437,634 pieces and in 1921 fell to 10,379,821 pieces. These figures are particularly significant when consideration is given to the fact that China's consumption of cotton cloth has substantially increased during the last few years.

China is now making remarkable strides in industrial development along modern lines. Just the other day announcement was made of the formal opening at Woosung, China, of another large cotton mill possessing 46,000 spindles with the machinery run by electricity generated by two 1,000 K. W. turbo alternators. The organisation of the company is simple and efficient, and combines the best features of up-to-date control to suit conditions in China. The mill employs about 2,000 hands, and the employees' welfare is cared for along the same line adopted in the United States and in certain European countries.

The new cotton mill at Woosung is typical of the new industries that are being launched in China, some wholly by Chinese capital and others with Chinese capital combined with foreign capital.

While the industrial development in China may result in the curtailment of imports of certain classes of goods that are now produced in the home market, in its broader aspect it means a steady increase in trade in general, for with the establishment of modern manufacturing plants comes an increase in the purchasing power of the Chinese people. Where the average Chinese is spending a penny today, he should be spending a dollar a decade hence.

The Secret Of The Aerial Glider

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

"I make a point of reading your articles. Contrary to your articles on gravitation, a German airman takes off in his heavier-than-air glider, remains off the ground several hours, landing at a point over a thousand feet above the starting place. This seeming defiance of gravity puzzles the average person I find. Would appreciate your explanation.—W. J., aviator, Yonkers."

There does not appear to be any mystery about the German experiments in gliding at a high altitude in the air, or in the rising of the glider above the level of the point of departure. On a smaller scale all this was accomplished years ago, before the perfection of the aeroplane.

As an aviator you must have had experiences which illustrated the principle, for the aeroplane is itself only a glider with motor attached to supply it continuously with power independent of gravity. Gravity cannot be destroyed, but its effect can be neutralised by an opposing force, such as that furnished by the propeller.

Aided by the propeller, the aeroplane rises from the level of the ground by virtue of the upward resultant of the force exerted by the air on its sloping wings. After it has attained a certain elevation, if the engine is stopped the aeroplane glides downward. This is substantially what it would do if, without engine or propeller, it could be launched from a high elevation, and be prevented from turning and remaining, edgewise toward the ground.

The simple glider cannot start from the ground, i.e. from a level plane, but must be launched from an elevation, the elevation gives it potential energy. The moment it is launched gravity becomes its motive power, and following the direction of least resistance, the glider moves off on a downward slope until it has attained a speed sufficient to place it nearly in equilibrium after which it moves on horizontally, riding upon the air without falling, somewhat as a skater in swift movement skims across a thin piece of ice without breaking through.

The novelty in the German experiments consists in the bold acceptance of the primary condition for a long glide, viz. that the take off must be from a very elevated point and not from a mere hillock. Then, the surrounding topography no doubt has much to do with the great success attained. The complexity and power of the air currents prevailing in hilly and mountainous regions is almost beyond belief. You have only to stand on a lofty cliff and launch a piece of card board over the abyss in order to have a practical demonstration of the possibilities of gliding upon, or in, the air.

The card-board would continue to plunge straight downward only if it could be kept with its flat sides vertical. But even if it is started that way, there are many influences tending to turn it and when once its flat side is presented toward the earth, its fall is arrested, and then, like the glider, it shoots off horizontally, or nearly so, sometimes rising, at other times descending, in accordance with the air currents that affect it.

The art of soaring is distinctive with high-flying birds. Birds whose life is passed close to the ground do not practice gliding, or soaring. Either a rapid horizontal propulsion, or a lofty take off, is essential to gliding and soaring. Yet even the eagle on starting from his mountain-crag, at first uses his wings to get up a stronger forward motion before soaring.

Possibly the most instructive birds to study are sea-gulls, which often sail in close proximity to a ship. Without any apparent addition to their propulsive force, they will suddenly turn steeply upward, rising with astonishing velocity, but the ability to do this depends upon the speed with which they are already moving horizontally. They cant their wings in such a way that an upward resultant arises from their forward motion. Or turning directly into the face of a current, with their wings properly placed, they are forced up by the moving air. Thus they exchange kinetic for potential energy.

When the propelling force is derived solely from gravity, as in the case of a simple gliding-machine having no propeller, and little or no accumulated force from a preliminary run on the ground, the machine cannot rise above the level of its starting point unless force, independent of gravity, is given to it in the course of its flight.

Such force may come from upward air currents. If, when the machine is gliding swiftly along, almost in equilibrium, the surrounding air rises, the glider will be borne up with it. In a hilly country with a dish or cup-shaped central depression, such air movements are common, and they would serve to account for the reported rising of the German gliders to an elevation a thousand feet above the starting point. But such conditions depend upon local topography. I have no doubt, however, that gliding in suitable environments will become a useful means of aerial locomotion no less than an inspiring sport.

A Mere Suspicion

BY S. E. KISER

I try to be a hopeful soul
In spite of what I have to give
For bread and milk and rent and coal,
And for the right, in fact, to live;
I try to keep my courage high,
I will not wallow in despair;
Clouds do not always dull the sky,
The mornings frecuently are fair.
But often as I drudge along,
It seems that something must be wrong
Somewhere.

They raise my taxes every year,
And never lack a fine excuse;
My meagre savings disappear.
My neck is always in a noose;
I've helped to send to Washington
Men who were pledged to set things right;
Great things are always to the done
To make my heavy burdens light;
Their efforts, though, are few and brief;
Things drift along; there's no relief
In sight.

Supplies of fuel always fail
Just when the need is most intense;
It's wasting effort to assail
Officials sitting on the fence;
They smile assuringly and say
The time has not yet come to act;
Our ills will all be cured some day
If we are patient and have tact:
We tell our woes in prose and verse,
But things drift on from bad to worse,
In fact.

Fruit lies upon the ground and rots,
And still the price of food is high;
The towns are filled with vacant lots,
Still people crowd—I wonder why.
I try to think all will be well,
Despite the turmoil here and there;
I know the land in which I dwell
Is much the fairest of the fair,
But, all the same, I have a strong
Suspicion that there's something wrong
Somewhere.

Lady Astor For Local Option In English Towns

London, Sept. 9.—Lady Astor is adopting the campaign tactics of the early American prohibitionists and is hoping to cut down English drinking by local option. Her liquor bill, already introduced into Parliament, which caused widespread discussion and strengthened the opposition to her seat in Plymouth, was published this week with a memorandum explaining its purpose. It is known as the popular control bill and is backed by Mrs. Wintringham, the only other woman in the House of Commons, Trevelyan Compson and J. P. Thomas.

It gives the inhabitants of boroughs and counties the right to decide periodically whether there is to be a change in the manner of conducting the liquor trade within their boundaries, whether the trade is to be reorganised or whether all licenses are to be abolished. Electors by means of an alternative ballot, can vote preferentially in favor of one measure and alternatively in favor of a second. If the area votes for reorganisation, a board of management bearing to Parliament the same relation as the port of London will take over the trade area, but it won't have authority to issue licenses nor the powers of the wartime control board to vary the hours of keeping open. Its functions will be limited to the production and distribution of intoxicants subject to the supervision and control of an advisory committee.

It will be the duty of the board to close all redundant public houses, to abolish grocery licenses, to raise the age of buying from 16 to 18 years and to make such structural alterations as may be desired. The board will not take over the hotels or clubs, but will supervise the sale of intoxicants in such places.

All profits from the reorganised areas will be paid into a central compensation fund. This fund will be available for the payment of compensation to the areas voting for abolition or reorganisation. The fund will be outside the control of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and none of the compensation money will come from taxpayers.

Lady Astor is preparing for a strenuous fight at the next session of Parliament to gain better saloon conditions and claims that she already has had great encouragement. Meanwhile the wets, who hope to defeat her, are spending their money freely, but Lady Astor still is a heavy favorite.

Kota Bahroe Rubber Estates Meeting

The second annual general meeting of the Kota Bahroe Rubber Estate (1921) Limited, was held yesterday at the offices of the secretaries and general managers, Messrs. A. R. Burkill and Sons, 2 Canton Road.

The chairman said:

"The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time, I will, with your permission take them as read.

"At the last annual meeting you were informed that tapping operations which had been suspended for some considerable time on all our estates were to be resumed on a moderate scale. Tapping was commenced at Kota Bahroe in December, at Canning in January and Gunong Rapat in June, while at Sikamat tapping was suspended entirely throughout the whole year. Since the end of the financial year, however, the last named Estate has, on the recommendation of our Visiting Agent, resumed tapping so that all the Company's properities are now tapping again.

"The trees are very much improved and are showing excellent foliage and there can be no doubt but that the rest from tapping has done an immense amount of good to the properties. Although no tapping statistics are given in the report, returns from the Estates denote that the alternate day tapping system, after the period of rest, is justifying itself and yields are distinctly good.

"All the properties were kept in good order in respect of weeding and costs showed a great improvement over last years figures. A certain amount of disease exists on all the Estates but the position in this respect is normal and well in hand. Thinning out was proceeded with on each Estate and the work will be carried on during the current year until the gradual attainment of a normal number of trees per acre is reached. All the Estates are well situated in respect of labor, there being adequate supplies for all requirements and health was good and quite up to standard throughout the year.

"Every economy was effected during the year and for the limited period of tapping, costs on Kota Bahroe and Canning were quite reasonable. Now that tapping has been resumed on all the Estates and with better yields assured, a further reduction in costs is anticipated during the current year.

"As you are aware, news was received in Shanghai last week that the Colonial Office had approved of a definite scheme for the restriction of outputs. The scheme becomes operative on the 1st November but full datails are not yet to hand. The effect of this intervention on the part of the Government has already given a stimulus to the market and prospects for the industry at this juncture are better than they have been for some considerable time.

"The Estates were visited during the year by Messrs. Wilde and Co., Ltd., and Major Nevill Steyens and generally speaking, their reports indicate a very satisfactory state of affairs on all the Company's states. Two of your directors, Messrs. T. E. Trueman and W. McMurray, also visited all the Estates except Sikamat and both these gentlemen were favorably impressed with the condition of the Estates, especially the manner in which Kota Bahroe was being managed.

"Before concluding I would like to take this opportunity of expressing the Board's appreciation to the Estate staff for the undoubtedly good work done by them during the year.

"That is all I have to say gentlemen, if any Shareholder has any questions to ask, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability."

The following resolutions were passed:

"That the report and Accounts for the year ended 30th. June, 1922 together with the recommendation as to appropriation of balance at debit of profit and loss account as presented be accepted."

"That the appointment of Mr. A. W. Burkill as a Director of the Company be confirmed."

"That Mr. T. E. Truman be re-elected a Director of the Company."

"That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham & Matthews be re-elected Auditors to the Company at an annual remuneration of Tls. 400 Shanghai and Penang."

Getting The Habit

BY DR. CHARLES FLEISCHER

He was a rather likewise man. He had managed to remain single, though not really heartwhole, to the age when many men already taste the first joys of fond grandfatherhood.

Whenever asked how he had escaped marriage, and taxed with apparently not being "a marrying man," he would answer with mock seriousness, "I am afraid to get the habit."

You see, monogamy is a rather recent acquisition for the human race—especially for the male portion thereof. And, again, it is only relatively lately that we have authoritative divine sanction and religious injunction to support this human achievement—or profession—of monogamy.

In other words, the marriage and lifelong loyalty of one and one are still in the earlier stages of the process of becoming the universal practice and the fixed habit of the human race.

If you are inclined to dispute the statement, consult the vital statistics of any country. You will be impressed by the meaning of the sad story of divorce.

Then supplement that recorded knowledge with the unrecorded number of separations and the still larger mass of more or less tragic cases of men and women living together unhappily forever after.

Better—or worse—still, take yourself as a horrible example.

If you are married, confess how often you think longingly of one or another with whom at least you thought you might have lived a more successful married life.

Or admit that you tug at the bonds of matrimony when, on occasion, you meet somebody who makes deep appeal to your nature which desires so deeply happiness of fulfillment.

All this without conscious disloyalty.

Or you are unmarried, and you contemplate one after another candidate for your consummated affection. And you consider those who could furnish chapters to the book which you will never write on "Some Sweethearts I Might Have Married."

These observations were suggested by the news item telling of the suit for divorce brought by the wife of one of our best known American actors.

He is sixty-four, and this is the fifth time he was being similarly sued!

This marrying man is a comedian. Which is not necessarily funnier than being married five times and having all of your ex-wives alive to taunt you with the thought that at least your marriages are a failure.

Here, at any rate, is a man who is not afraid of getting the habit of marriage or of indulging in tandem polygamy.

They used to ask facetiously why women married Nat Goodwin, whose record is even longer than that of his brother comedians thus far.

Perhaps they had gotten the habit.

This Creamy Gruyere Cheese is prepared from the richest unskimmed milk from Swiss high pastures under the most hygienic conditions, and is warranted pure. Being packed without crust, it is more economical than any crusted cheese, every particle being eatable. The manufactures of the "Bouquet des Alpes" Brand, who are also the inventors of this kind of Swiss Cheese, succeeded in packing Gruyere Cheese into small tins, and by their special process are not only able to secure a perfect preservation but also to retain the delicate flavour of the finest Gruyere Cheese.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician knowing of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results."
W. A. CRANDALL, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments."
F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."
N. B. SIZER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

RARE POSTAGE STAMPS

Except in the case of a few very valuable lots, where a reasonable reserve has been specified, there is no reserve whatever. We insist on reserves being stated, because it is not fair to the buyers that they should be kept in ignorance of such reserves. It would be misleading our clients if it was stated "entirely without reserve", when perhaps, unknown to us, the owner is present in the room running up the lots till the desired point has been reached. This is what we want to avoid. Neither is it fair to us wasting our time on lots which will be withdrawn We want to be fair both to our clients and to the sellers.

Financial And Commercial News

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

October 20, 1922

Spot bar silver was down 5-16d. and forward ⅜d. in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 67½ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 445⅝.

Our official Sterling rate here this morning was dropped to 3-3, the Gold Dollars rate to 72½, the Yen rate raised to 66½ and the other rates changed in proportion.

Our market in the early part of the morning was on the steady side, business in Sterling being done as high as 3-3-11-16 for all deliveries to January, and in Gold Dollars at 73¾ October-November and 73⅞ for December-January.

However, speculators turned buyers at these rates and the market quickly eased off and while in the early part of the afternoon business in Sterling was done at 3s. 3½d. for all deliveries to January and in Gold Dollars at 73⅜, at the close there were buyers at these rates with sellers at 3s. 3¾d. and 73¼ respectively.

There were sellers of Yen at the close at 66 and buyers at 65¾.

Banks were quoting 3-4¼ for Sterling bills, 74¾ for Gold Dollar bills and 1010 for Franc bills.

China sold silver again in London yesterday and the market there as well as in New York is reported as easy.

Cotton Market

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son state as follows:

China Cotton.—While there has been no sharp fluctuations during the past week, the market has been fairly active and the outstanding feature has been the strength with which trade interests have absorbed all offerings at any slight concession. There seems to be no limit to this demand by the local mills, nor is there likely to be, as long as yarn can be sold for distant delivery at figures that ensure handsome profits to manufacturers, based on present prices for the raw material.

Judging from the present state of conditions, coupled with the recent advance in Mid-Americans and the strength of the Bombay market, we believe that purchases should be made on all reactions.

Yarn.—Nothing bearish has come to light since our last report was issued. Our market continues steady with a feeling of assurance that no weakness is likely to develop in this direction for some time to come. Deliveries are excellent and a general demand is looked forward to within the next couple of weeks as soon as the interior marts settle down to business again after their harvesting.

SPUNT'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their weekly report on the cotton market:

China Cotton:—While the demand on the part of Mills during the past week cannot be said to have been on a large scale, fairly voluminous commitments by the trade both for spot and future deliveries may be recorded. The receipts from the interior marts, though heavy, were absorbed as quickly as they arrived and as usual under such conditions prices assumed a firmness evolving a rising tendency. Furthermore, the better feeling in the yarn situation both here and in Japan, coupled with the current steady appreciation in Mid-Americans and Indians should not be disregarded in that such often form formidable factors towards influencing the rates of the domestic staple, indicating, as it were, the advisability of present purchases with a view to more profitable results before any further probable advances set in. Tone of the market. Firm.
